Agape Construction: Designing & Building Homeowners' Dreams For 30 Years

Agape Construction Company began 30 years ago working out of the O'Brien family home before moving to its current location at 435 E. Clinton in Kirkwood. Since then, Agape has grown into a premiere design and build firm.

Agape specializes in total renovations, additions, kitchens, bathrooms, custom builtins, garages and new homes. No matter what the clients' stage of life, Agape can help them find a comfortable and affordable solution. They are passionate about making homeowners' dreams come true.

"We provide the perfect blend of architectural design and technical expertise. Our seamless design and build process saves our clients time and money," said Kevin O'Brien, owner of Agape and a licensed engineer.

O'Brien works with a team of 25 talented professionals that include his wife Amy, who handles human resources and marketing, as well as his daughter, Molly.

Award - winning Architect Laurie Smith and her team provide exceptional designs.

Once a contract is signed, Interior Designer Edie Rice helps each client through the selections process.

The production crew, headed up by longtime employee Patrick Kelly, includes eight journeyman carpenters and one master carpenter who specializes in custom built-in bookshelves, fireplace surrounds and banquette booths.

Recent clients, John and Karen Drexler, hosted an open house for the Agape team (pictured above in their new kitchen) to thank them for a job well done.

"The Agape team was a pleasure to work with and very trustworthy," said the Drexlers. "We have worked with them on numerous home improvements and the end project always meets or exceeds our expectations."

That makes O'Brien happy because he relishes, "a well-run job that's on time, on budget, with a happy, satisfied customer." He continues, "2014 was our best year ever, thanks to great clients in Kirkwood, Webster, Glendale and the surrounding areas."
